What makes Jared different from other financial gurus...

Jared spent years on a cut-throat Wall Street trading floor, rising through the ranks to become the head of the ETF trading desk at Lehman Brothers.

Some days, he traded as much as $1 billion in clients' assets.

Today, while most analysts look at fundamentals or technicals, Jared taps into investor psychology and trades based on sentiment.

Jared is a published author, musician, and prolific writer, and he hosts his own annual conference.

“Many thanks, Jared, for your clear, studied communications offering pragmatic, real-world reflection on what’s going on. It inspires and confirms similar thoughts in your readers.
